

I would like to encourage you to leave the Indiana Telephone Privacy policy alone. I moved here from Texas where sales calls and telemarketing where a terrible curse to our family life...especially at dinner. Having this privacy benefit is wonderful. As a small business owner and in sales I can appreciate why those companies want access to me. However, if I need a product or a service I will get a referral from a friend or look in the Yellow Pages or go to their shop. I WILL NEVER do business with anyone who calls me on the phone. Therefore, it is my right NOT to give them access to bother me for no reason. Everyone has the right to advertise and I can ignore what I don't want. I can't ignore the ringing phone. Please don't take away the serenity of my home. Instead, you should give every state the minimum standards and let them add to the minimum according to the wishes of the residents.
